TRAM ISSUES UP AS SOON AS AGENT REACHES PORT

M. Bridou Now En Route From France As Company's Representative

Final negotiations between the French Tramways, light and water company and the French Municipal Council, which has demanded extensive improvements, will begin as soon as the company's representative arrives from Paris.

The emissary from the Paris head offices is Mr. L. Bridou, who also returns to Shanghai as managing director of the Messageries Maritimes. M. Bridon sailed from Marseilles on Feb. 10 and is due to arrive here shortly.

The Council's ultimatum to the effect that it would take over the lines was scheduled to go into effect today but in view of the sending out of the representative an extension of time was voted, the conference to begin not later than April 10.

JAPAN HOLDING YAP ISSUE OPEN, MINISTER SAYS

"Inadvisable To Announce Intention To Compromise," Diet Told

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, March 7.—In the course of the Budget debate in the House of Representatives, the Foreign Minister stated that the United States was represented on the Supreme Council meeting of May 7, 1919, which had discussed the question of Yap Island, but that she had made no reservation. Japan was not represented at that Conference, but had been informed respecting the proceedings, and would have been notified if the United States had made any reservation. Japan had not received any declaration from President Wilson, nor any memorandum.

The Yap mandate and cable questions had not been considered separately. America having participated in the meeting of the Supreme Council which had discussed the Yap question, there should not be any valid objection from America. The Yap question being already settled, the reported further conference probably concerned matters between America and Great Britain. It was inadvisable to state at present whether Japan would eventually compromise.

ANTI-REDS TURN FORTRESS GUNS ON PETROGRAD

Bombardment Started When Ultimatum To Soviet Is Ignored

MOSCOW RADIO SILENT

Vladivostok Station Has Not Received Messages For Week

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Helsingfors, March 8.—The Soviet having ignored an ultimatum from the revolutionary government, the Kronstadt forces have begun to bombard Petrograd.

Vladivostok, March 7.—The Vladivostok Radio station has not received messages from Moscow for a week.

An anti-Bolshevist uprising of serious proportions has broken out in Petrograd, according to a telegram received in Tokio by Dr. G. J. Ramstedt, Minister of Finland in Tokio, according to the Japanese Advertiser. The telegram comes from the Finnish Foreign Office in Helsingfors and is dated March 1.

Vasilievski Island, on which are located the Exchange, the Military College and the Naval College, has been seized and is in control of the insurgents. This island lies between the two arms of the Neva River, the Great Neva and the Little Neva. From here as a center the rising is spreading to other parts of the city.

Martial law has been declared throughout the city by the Soviet authorities.

The trouble in the former capital of Russia began on Feb. 24 and has been growing in extent since that date.

Doctor Ramstedt says there is every reason to believe that this revolt, which is of a White, or anti-Soviet, nature, is serious and may lead to important developments. His Foreign Office does not cable him except on matters of great importance, he said last night. There have been recent indications of the coming of a White rising that might assume serious proportions, according to the Finnish Minster.

Doctor Ramstedt's cablegram did not mention the reported outbreak in Moscow nor did it tell anything of the movements of Lenin or Trotsky.

Peking, March 8.—Reuter's informant that the Chinese Government intended to receive Soviet delegates now states that the Government has finally decided to the contrary effect.

CAPTAIN SWIMS THROUGH STORM AT SEA, SAVES 100

Skipper Evans, Of The Carlisle, Shows Marvelous Bravery

TAKES LINE TO WRECK

Twice Braves Gale Swept Water To Reach Stricken "Hong Moh"

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Hongkong, March 8.—With the arrival of H.M.S. Carlisle, particulars of the wreck of the Hong Moh are now available. It appears that the vessel is a total loss, having broken up into three pieces.

When the Carlisle reached the scene of the disaster, at seven o'clock on Sunday morning, she found H.M.S. Foxglove standing by the wreck, and a heavy sea running, which made the lowering of the cruiser's whalers a matter of difficulty.

At eight o'clock in the morning the Carlisle lowered her cutters, and later the Foxglove lowered her big boats. The Foxglove and Carlisle also floated a number of rafts down towards the wreck, and these were the means of picking up many Chinese. The fact that a strong north-east monsoon prevailed, and that the sea was breaking furiously over the wreck, prevented the rescue of greater numbers.

The Chinese dropped over the Hong Moh's sides in dozens, without hope of rescue. The heaviest loss of life resulted from the listing and submerging of the forecastle, whereby many were washed overboard.

The heroic part played by Captain Evans, the Carlisle's commanding officer, is beyond praise. He went off to the wreck in a motor-boat, with a cutter in tow, and succeeded in getting almost alongside the vessel. There were then still a few survivors in the forecastle too exhausted to save themselves. Captain Evans stripped and swam off to the wreck with a life-line, and thus saved all but one of those who had by this time been clinging to the wreck for two days.

Later Captain Evans got alongside the main part of the wreck. The propeller of the motor-boat then fouled some wreckage, whereupon Captain Evans again stripped, jumped into the water, and cleared the propeller with the help of an Able Seaman named Whitehead. Captain Evan's exertions resulted in saving about a hundred lives. A son of the manager of the company that owns the Hong Moh was on board at the time of the disaster, and was amongst those rescued.

URGES BOYCOTT TO FORCE ACTION ON SALT SURPLUS

Speaker At Canton Mass Meeting Asks For Drastic Steps Against Foreigners

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, March 8.—A mass meeting was held in Canton on March 6, to discuss means for withdrawing the released customs surplus was attended by several hundred people. The speakers contended that the surplus belonged to China and that it was her right to withdraw it from the diplomatic corps. One orator advocated that if further attempts should prove unsuccessful, a boycott by the people should be instituted, deposits withdrawn from foreign banks and foreign goods boycotted. This however could not be done without a formal government, and it was suggested that the first necessity was to elect a president and form a government.

The meeting passed a resolution to the effect that the customs surplus should be withdrawn at all costs and that the military government and the National Assembly should be petitioned to elect a president.

HARDING SPEECH SIGNIFICANT TO CHINESE EDITOR

Better Sino-American Relations Forcast, Says The Vi Yi Jih Pao

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, March 4.—The Vi Yi Jih Pao, a vernacular organ of the old communications party, in commenting editorially on the inauguration of Mr. Harding as president of the United States, draws special attention to the friendly relations that have existed between China and America ever since the opening of the former country to foreign commerce; a friendship, the paper stresses, wellknown to everybody, particularly since the return by America to China of her share of the indemnity incurred by the Boxer trouble of 1900 to be used for the education of Chinese students in America.

"But," says the Vi Yi Jih Pao, "what we should now dwell upon is the future of the Sino-American relations. This is not because of partiality to America or indifference to other countries, but because while European-Asiatic relations maintain their status quo, they are not capable of development, whereas American-Asiatic relations have reached the point of great expansion. Although Europe and Asia are contiguous, the direct contiguity of Great Britain and France with Asia is through their dependencies—India, Indo-China and other colonies. What those nations want in China, rather than anything else is commerce; as long as that remains intact they have no concern with China's destiny. This is a condition that does not apply to America."

Famine Places Blight On Future Of Northern China

Sufferers Sacrificing Tools And Equipment, Including Their Homes, In Frightful Struggle To Retain Life—Investigators See Misery In Many Forms

By JOSEF W. HALL
(Staff Correspondence)

Chinghouhsien, Chihli, Feb. 24.—"Our big problem is not those who die, but those who survive." Thus did Mrs. Dr. Tucker, of the American Board Mission, Techow, express the feeling of many of the relief workers in this district, and as our party, consisting of Mrs. Eleanor Egan, Dr. G. D. Wilder, of Peking, two American Marines and myself, passed through the clean-swept villages on our two days' trek over the bare, dusty plain to this town, we gained some realisation of the force of this remark.

It is from the humanitarian standpoint of course, that the famine makes its most powerful appeal. But the calamity and its relief will, since mankind is utilitarian, be ultimately judged rather by its economic than its humanitarian features. And the depressing economic effect of the loss of the numbers who will go under in the struggle for existence will be as nothing compared to the complete impoverishment now gradually taking place throughout the greater and more important portion of the vast North China plain.

We have found the townspeople and villagers, in spite of the fact that in this area most of them have heard of the relief activities, still carrying on the basis that they must rely solely upon their own unaided efforts for the preservation of their lives. The entire population is under a self-imposed system of rationing more rigorous than any war-beleaguered people of Europe ever experienced. In normal times these plains-people eat two meals a day. They are now eating one meal daily, of which water-soaked chaff is the foundation, and which is eaten with or without a seasoning of thistle greens, and, by those lacking fuel, uncooked.

EAT COTTON SEEDS

In some sections cotton-seeds, instead of chaff, is the staple, and the by-product of bean-cured manufacture, now dearer than the normal price of the curd itself, offers some variation. Such a diet, of course, only fills without nourishing, and when the peasant finds his vitality dropping too dangerously low, he sells his plough or his cooking kettle or his daughter or the beams out of his wrecked hut (usually in the order mentioned) to get millet to mix for a few days with his chaff.

In each village in the bad districts, which the relief investigators have designated as "black," eight or a dozen deaths for which starvation is directly responsible, have occurred. On who has been into the compounds of these

The Penalties To Be Inflicted By The Entente

The penalties to be inflicted on Germany in lieu of noncompliance with the treaty terms, as announced by Lloyd George, are:

First.—We shall occupy the towns of Duisburg, Ruhrort and Duesseldorf, on the right bank of the Rhine.

Third.—The amount of duties collected by German custom-houses on the external frontiers of occupied territories will be paid to the Reparations Commission. These duties will continue to be levied in accordance with the German tariff. A line of custom-houses will be tempied by the Allies' troops. porarily established on the Lahn and at the boundary of the bridge-heads occu- The tariff to be levied on this line, both on the entry and export of goods, will be determined by the Allied Commissioner of the Rhine Territory, in conformity with instructions from the Allied Governments.

BRITISH, FRENCH AND BELGIAN TROOPS ARE HIKING OVER RHINE!

Gen. Degoutte Takes Up Headquarters At Neuss; Other Cities To Be Occupied; Ebert Government Exhorts People To Remain Calm "While Right Is Being Downtrodden By Might;" Teuton Envoys Leave London After Failure Of Mission

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, March 8.—Duesseldorf was occupied at dawn this morning by the Allies, who advanced during the night, being transported in lorries and a flotilla of boats. The British force consisted of cavalry and tanks. The Belgian army was represented by infantry, and the French furnished cavalry, infantry, engineers, artillery and armored cars.

While the Belgians crossed the Rhine Bridge, the British and French marched along the right bank from the Cologne bridgehead, entering Duesseldorf from the south and east. General Degoutte's headquarters have been transferred to Neuss, some three miles west of Duesseldorf.

The Speeches

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 7.—Mr. Lloyd George, in addressing the German delegates at the Conference this afternoon, said that the German proposals did not represent such an advance on those first submitted as to justify the Allies in postponing execution of the sanctions, though they all deeply deplored this in the interests of the peace of the world.

London, March 7.—In his reply to Dr. von Simons this afternoon, Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that the Allies, neutrals and Germany all insistently urged the clamant necessity of reaching a definite settlement of outstanding questions, particularly determination of the total amount of indemnities.

It was sound common sense, in the interests of the peace and prosperity of the world, to realise the futility of endeavoring to reconstruct the future on a rocking foundation, and to discover something, however low, which touched bottom in the paramount interests of the world, including Germany. The German proposals failed completely.

"Until we get from Germany proposals that mean a definite, unchallenged settlement," the British Premier continued, "there cannot be peace between us." Dr. von Simons' offer appears to accept the Paris proposals for five years, but even this is uncertain because, in the event of the Upper Silesia plebiscite going against Germany, the whole scheme falls through.

"Even assuming that the plebiscite were favorable to Germany and that we were ready to accept the conditions about German trade, what would happen at the end of five years? We have no proposal, not even a minimum figure; not even a precise method of arriving at a figure. Therefore the situation is not only perfectly vague: it is disquieting since the payments now offered would not be paid from current revenue, but would involve a loan.

"SEEKING CERTAINTY"

"Germany thus mortgages her future, necessitating a lien on her income for subsequent years in order to pay the annuities for the first five years. We have been seeking some sort of certainty. All we get is the certainty that it will be inadequate."

Even if Germany entirely lost Silesia, Mr. Lloyd George pointed out, her population would still be ten millions in excess of that of the United Kingdom, which at present had a million unemployed on account of the war, in addition to having to provide five hundred million sterling for pensions. Thus, if Germany carried out the Paris proposals, her aggregate payments to the Allies would only be a quarter of the war charges in Great Britain alone.

The French case was more striking. In addition to a heavy pension list, France was compelled to find twelve thousand million francs to repair devastations. Consequently Germany this year would have to find, for all the Allies, only a ninth of France's liabilities. Yet Dr. von Simons talked of the "economic sacrifices" of Germany, clearly showing that Germany had

The Break

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 7. 8:35 p.m.—The Conference has come to a dramatic end. The Allies have rejected the German counter-proposals and decided to enforce the penalties decided on at Paris.

On the conclusion of the Conference a telegram was despatched, directing that military movements should begin tomorrow (Tuesday). The new Customs regime in the Occupied Territories will come into force on Thursday.

The German delegates will leave for home at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

London, March 7.—Owing to the momentousness of this morning's conference, an enormous crowd collected outside Lancaster House and gave Mr. Lloyd George a tremendous ovation as he arrived, surrounding him and shouting: "Make them pay."

Dr. von Simons' statement at the conference reiterated Germany's inability to accept the Paris proposals and declared that owing to the far-reaching difference of opinion, and the grave difficulties in the way of obtaining a perfect solution of the reparations problem, the Germans were compelled to abandon the idea of presenting a new plan for the total reparation, and had decided to revert to the idea of a provisional arrangement. Germany was prepared to pay the fixed annuities provided for the first five years and was also ready to give the full equivalent for the twelve percent export duty which was not thought practicable.

Such tremendous payments, the Foreign Minister went on, were only possible if a large part of them could be financed by way of a loan. The proposal could only be made if Upper Silesia, by virtue of the plebiscite, remained German and if the restrictions imposed on Germany in the commercial world were abolished.

DR. VON SIMONS' PLEA

Both conditions were necessary to enable Germany honorably to promise such high payments. Dr. von Simons continued: "It is entirely for the Allies to decide whether we submit such a proposal today. If you agree then we shall do our best to co-operate with your experts with a view to establishing as soon as possible a comprehensive plan of reparations covering thirty years. If, however, you insist on making a fixed total offer we must ask for a delay of a week in order to consult the Berlin cabinet."

Dr. von Simons asserted that the difference between the Paris decisions and the German counter-proposals did not mean that Germany intended to evade her obligations or mock the Treaty. It was only a question of the capacity of Germany's economic organisation. They had left nothing untried since Thursday to explain the spirit of the counter-proposals, to clear up mistakes and to find other ways that would lead to an understanding.

"According to the declarations of the Allies," Dr. von Simons proceeded, "the Paris proposals intend to meet us half way. We prefer for a time, after the lapse of five years, not to make use of this intention to meet us but to get in fact the present provisions of the Peace Treaty. I am unable to see in how far this can be regarded as a wilful and deliberate refusal on the part of Germany."

Dr. von Simons preferred that the settlement of the total reparations debt should be calculated according to the provisions of the Peace Treaty. With regard to Mr. Lloyd George's ruling that Germany's guilt must be considered as the basis of the Treaty, Dr. von Simons said that he had deliberately avoided speaking of the question of guilt for the war because that would make an understanding more difficult. He declared that the Treaty of Frankfort was based on the assumption that the vanquished, and not the guilty party, should pay the costs of the war and that history alone would be able to decide who was responsible for the world war. He was far from wishing to absolve the German Government from responsibility, but whether a single nation, and that nation Germany, had been exclusively guilty, had not been finally decided by the Treaty of Versailles.

CALLS TREATY "LAWFUL"

Dr. von Simons continued: "The Treaty of Versailles is lawful for us because we signed it, thus not merely admitting that we had lost the war, but signing our judgement." Mr. Lloyd George had emphasised that it was a "chose jugee" but Dr. von Simons contended that any law reserved the possibility of invalidating a "chose jugee" if the condemned party furnished new proofs.

The German Foreign Minister dwelt on the emotions aroused in him by his four visits to the devastated areas and said that the majority of the Germans were anxious to co-operate in the work of reconstruction. He deplored the doubts cast on their proposals to deal with a task of such immense difficulty.

Dr. von Simons declared that Mr. Lloyd George's statement that the German taxation was lower than that of the Allies was based on the Allied experts' wrong method of calculating and quoted figures from a memorandum of the League of Nations in support of his contention that Germany was more heavily burdened than either England or France. He warned the Allies not to attempt to squeeze from Germany any more payment than she was able to give and declared that the menace of penalties was unjustified by the Peace Treaty and was a contradiction of the League of Nations' Pact.

APPEALS TO LEAGUE

Dr. von Simons said that Germany was not a member of the League of Nations but had signed the Pact of the League. He therefore, on behalf of the German Government, made an appeal to the Assembly of the League against the sanctions with which Germany was threatened and concluded by declaring that if any sanction failed to attain its purpose it must call for new sanctions, thus eventually preparing a new state of violence. But, he added, all wanted to leave the unhealthy atmosphere of compulsion and to enter the wholesome atmosphere of voluntary co-operation in the common distress which could only be removed by common effort, and Germany was ready to exert herself more than others in this regard. He appealed to the Allies to assist Germany in finding ways to fulfil her obligations. This, he said, could best be done by appointing technical experts on both sides.

Mr. Lloyd George, in a brief reply, referred to the great gravity of the situation and said that the nature of the answer which the Allies were forced to give could not be doubted; but that a reasoned reply would be given in the afternoon.

The conference adjourned at 1:30 p.m. and re-assembled at 4:30 p.m.

Berlin, March 8.—President Ebert and Herr Fehrenbach, the Chancellor, have issued a proclamation, in which they protest against "the unprecedented and unfulfillable demands which our opponents in the world-war have sought to impose on ourselves, our children and our grandchildren. Honor and self-respect forbid the signing of a contract which the work of generations will not suffice to execute."

The protest declares that the occupation of further German territory is a breach of the Treaty of Versailles, and proceeds: "We are defenceless, and unable to oppose force with force, but we can cry out, so that all who still recognise the voice of righteousness may hear that right is being downtrodden by might."

It exhorts the German people to meet foreign violence with a dignified, calm and lofty front, and not to be provoked into thoughtless acts, but to endure and trust the Government, "which will not rest till foreign might yields to right."

London, March 8.—The briefest period has elapsed between the breakdown of the Reparations Conference and the carrying-out of the military part of the sanctions, for a Paris telegram announces that according to semi-official information from Duesseldorf the First French detachments to be despatched there arrived last evening at Benrath, on the border of the occupied regions. A telegram from Berlin confirms this report. A British detachment from Cologne is in the neighborhood and will participate in the occupation. General Degoutte is in Supreme Command.

London, March 8.—The Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent states that in the course of the discussion on the reparations project put forward by Mr. Lloyd George yesterday morning, including the levying on the importing countries of a tax on German exports, Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister in London, speaking feelingly and deliberately, recognised the justice of M. Briand's contention that it was necessary to apply force. This is the first time that Baron Hayashi has differed from the British standpoint of reluctance to resort to military penalties until every other means of securing an agreement has been exhausted.

Paris, March 6.—The papers comment favorably on President Harding's inaugural message which, it is pointed out, dashes Germany's hopes of American intervention in her favor.

not yet realised the essential facts of the situation.

Mr. Lloyd George dismissed the difficulty of paying beyond the frontiers as a surmountable, currency question. The Premier emphasised the fact that Dr. von Simons refused to accept responsibility for the war, (which was the basis of the Treaty) but appealed to history to revise the sentence. Mr. Lloyd George suspected, with some uneasiness, that Germany intended that, in this regard, history should begin five years hence. The Allies, he said could not discuss that basis.

CONFIDENCE LACKING

Unless Germany were prepared to act on a fundamental realisation of her responsibility, it was impossible to discover an arrangement calculated to produce an atmosphere of confidence and goodwill, which was essential to the peace of Europe. The Paris proposals already represented a considerable abatement of the Allies' claims, advanced with a view to assuring a settlement. We were willing to discuss with Germany the length of the period of the annuities and also an alternative method to the twelve percent tax for adjusting the annuity to Germany's prosperity, but we demanded immediately: firstly, a settlement of the amount of payments or of the factors which should automatically determine those amounts in accordance with Germany's prosperity; secondly, an arrangement as regards the method of payment which would preclude the possibility of further discussions or quarrels.

Mr. Lloyd George asked Dr. von Simons' pardon for expressing the opinion that the latter was not a free agent, but was compelled to answer to a public opinion which was unready to pay the debt. He concluded by insisting on the necessity for an immediate definite settlement. In consequence of the fact that the German proposals were simply an evasive postponement, he said, the Allies had regretfully concluded that the penalties must be enforced immediately.

Replying to Mr. Lloyd George, Dr. von Simons complained against the Allies' refusal to grant a brief delay in order to consult with the Berlin cabinet. He expressed agreement with the Allies' suggestion to tax German goods delivered in Allied countries but regretted that German public opinion would discredit this proposal on account of its inclusion among the Allies' sanctions. He further agreed with the Allies' intention of examining the method of payment but deplored the fact that the joint committee of experts who would deliberate on this point would meet in an atmosphere embittered by the enforcement of the sanctions against which he formally and solemnly protested.

At the conclusion of the conference a telegram was despatched directing military movements to begin tomorrow.

The German delegates will leave for home at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

New Engineering Works Pays Dividends And Bonus Aggregating 100 Per Cent

Shipbuilding Company Also Will Increase Its Capitalisation By 500,000 Preference And 350,000 Ordinary Shares

The New Engineering and Shipbuilding Works held its annual general meeting yesterday followed by an extraordinary meeting when dividends and a bonus aggregating 100 percent were authorised to shareholders and the company's capitalisation was increased by 500,000 preference shares of 5 taels each and 350,000 further ordinary shares of 5 taels each.

Mr. H. E. Arnhold, chairman, presided at both meetings which were held in the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce. According to the directors' report the profit and loss account, including Tls. 39,082.23 brought forward from 1919 amounts to Tls. 1,293,304 which less deductions in the shape of depreciation and directors' and auditors' fees leaves a balance available for distribution of Tls. 1,265,554.

As the result of action taken an interim dividend of 20 percent is to be paid June 22, amounting to Tls. 150,000, a final dividend of 20 percent will be paid, amounting to Tls. 150,000 and a bonus of 60 percent, amounting to Tls. 450,000.

SHARE DISTRIBUTION

By the terms of resolutions adopted, from the increase of 500,000 preference shares of Tls. 5 each there shall be allotted to shareholders out of the reserve fund of the company as it stands on March 23, 1921, Tls. 10 in the form of two fully paid preference shares (of Tls. 5 each) for every share held by them and such preference shares shall entitle the holders to a fixed cumulative preferential dividend of 8 percent on the capital for the time being paid up on such shares and shall rank in a winding-up both as regards capital and dividend in priority to other shares.'

Of the 350,000 new ordinary shares at Tls. 5 each, it has been authorised that 60,000 of these shares shall be offered in the first instance at a premium of Tls. 5 per share to shareholders in the proportion as nearly as may be of two of such new ordinary shares for every five ordinary shares held on March 23, 1921, ranking for dividends and in all other respects pari passu with the existing shares of the company.

THE ADDRESSES

The addresses given by the Chairman at the two meetings were as follows:

The Chairman said: "As it is past the time for which the meeting has been convened and there is a quorum present, I will call upon the secretary to read the notice convening the meeting, as also the auditor's report.

"The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will with your permission follow the usual custom and take them as read.

"It gives me great pleasure to again submit such a highly satisfactory report and to be in a position to state that the year's work constitutes a new record in the annals of the Company. The Works have been very fully occupied during the whole of the year and there has been a notable increase both in repair and construction work. Before proposing the adoption and passing of the accouts I will, as usual, make a few remarks.

"The amount available for distribution, including Tls. 39,082.23 carried forward from 1919, amounts to Tls. 1,265,554.39, of which Tls. 150,000 has already been paid out in the shape of an interim dividend of one tael per share, and it is now proposed to deal with the balance as follows:

	Taels
To pay a final dividend of 20 percent	150,000.00
To pay a bonus of 60 percent	450,000.00
To place to depreciation fund	25,000.00
To place to reserve fund	325,000.00
To place to dividend equalisation fund	100,000.00
To donate to charities	10,000.00
And to carry forward the balance of	55,554.39
	1,115,554.39

This is a very handsome return, although the fact must not be overlooked that the actual amount of capital working in the business was approximately five million taels. You will notice on the asset side of the balance sheet that a considerable amount is again shown for capital expenditure, most of which represents progress made in the development schemes which have already been brought to your notice.

Land. Under this heading you will see an increase of Taels 83,959.68. This represents in the first instance the cost of the acquisition of a residential site in the Yangtszepoo District not far from the Works for the erection of residences for our staff. A terrace of five houses is already in course of erection to relieve the housing problem that has been so acutely felt by many of our employes, in the same way as it is felt by many other people in Shanghai. It also covers, however, the cost of a large piece of property purchased by the Company at Ichang.

WORKS AT ICHANG

"In the circular issued to the shareholders dealing with the reconstruction scheme reference is made to the erection of subsidiary Works in Ichang. As you are no doubt aware, the navigation of the Upper Yangtsze from Ichang to Chungking has rapidly been extending, and there will shortly be at least a dozen steamers plying on the Upper River. These steamers, owing to the danger of navigation on the Upper River, are frequently in urgent need of repairs, which they cannot obtain on the spot, and consequently have for minor repairs to come down to Hankow, or for larger repairs to Shanghai. This naturally involves a great loss of time and consequently also of revenue to the owners, as it means that they consequently lose the greater part of the high water season, which is the time in which they are able to earn money, as during the winter months the navigation of the Upper River cannot be maintained.

"It is therefore obvious that such vessels would be only too willing to pay adequate prices if they could get the necessary repairs undertaken on the spot, and thus not have to lose the greater part of the season. We have consequently been approached as to whether we could not see our way to erect subsidiary works in Ichang, and after having received a satisfactory report from one of our engineers, whom we sent up to Ichang to inspect, we purchased what seemed to us to be the most suitable site. As soon as the river had fallen to the lowest point, we requested Major Logan, of Messrs. Palmer and Turner, who has had considerable experience in construction work, to proceed to Ichang in order to make an inspection on the spot and report to us as to the feasibility of the scheme which we had in view, and I am glad to be able to tell you that the report we have just received from him on his return from Ichang is of a promising nature and is now having our further consideration.

NEW SHOPS BUILT

"Buildings, plant and machinery. This heading shows an increase of Taels 332,021.77. This covers the cost of erection of new shops and the cost of installation of a considerable number of modern machine tools necessary for the Company to enable it to maintain and if possible increase its operations. I have referred to the necessity of this outlay when addressing you on previous occasions.

"Dock. The increase of Taels 79,214.04 covers the cost of considerable improvements to facilitate docking and work on vessels, as also part of the expenditure on the installation of electric pumps, which will expedite pumping and thus enable us to attend to docking more rapidly, which is obviously in the interests of our constituents.

"Stock in hand and in transit Tls. 1,005,930.30. This shows a considerable increase. Our experience has again been the same as last year as the difficulty of obtaining materials within a reasonable time has been just as marked, whereas the remarkable increase in the Company's business has made it imperative to us to carry larger stocks than was formerly the case, so as to be in a position to at all times approach and carry out work without delay.

"Sundry debtors show an increase of Taels 125,000 over the corresponding amount of last year, but it is no way out of proportion to the increased business of the Company. No doubt you have seen in the press or heard from other sources of the large amount owing by the Russian Volunteer Fleet, amounting to Taels 170,000, but we have no reason to be apprehensive in connection with this indebtedness. With the exception of this sum nearly all other amounts outstanding have since been collected.

"Reserve Funds. Turning to the other side of the balance sheet you will see that the total of our various reserve funds, including

Mixed Court Jottings

Four men, including a Chinese police constable, were arrested early yesterday morning in connection with the robbery of premises at 559 Medhurst Road. The robbers intimidated the inmates with a pistol and escaped with two gold rings. They were charged in the Mixed Court and will be tried next Tuesday.

A shopkeeper arrested some days ago with two other men on the charge of stealing 35 bales of cotton yarn valued at $7,500 from the Chong Loong Co. has since gone violently insane and was brought to the Mixed Court yesterday bound with ropes, by the man who had furnished security for him. The guarantor wished to be released on account of the condition of the accused. The case was remanded for a special hearing.

Two men convicted of running an opium den at 265 Kwangse Road were sentenced to two months' imprisonment each yesterday. Nine customers found in the place when it was raided were fined $5 each.

A clerk charged with forging two checks—one for $10 and one for $20—drawn on the American-Oriental Bank was cautioned and required to file a bond yesterday after his employer, whose signature was used, had testified to giving permission for the accused to draw checks in his absence. The clerk had tried to borrow $30 from another Chinese and upon his refusal to make the loan had given him the checks.

The proprietor of a Chinese club was fined $20 yesterday for allowing a non-member on the premises. The non-member was assessed $10 for smoking opium.

Navy League Sues For Right Of Way

Bring Action In British Court Against Mr. A. L. Anderson

Hearing was begun in the British Supreme Court yesterday of a suit brought by trustees of the Navy League against Mr. A. L. Anderson in respect of a right of way to property of the plaintiffs across land held by the defendant.

Sir Everard Fraser, British Consul-General, and Mr. A. Brooke-Smith, Chairman of the Municipal Council, appeared as trustees of the League, represented by Mr. R. E. S. Gregson, and Mr. D. McNeill represented Mr. Anderson.

The League property is in the neighborhood of the American Red Cross Hospital and is off Siccawei Road. It was purchased in 1904 with the idea that a recreation field for the use of navy men might be created. From 1908 to 1914 it was rented to the Clay Pigeon Club and was used by the Club during these years. In 1914 or prior thereto, the plaintiffs stated, Mr. Anderson owned a piece of land to the northwest of the roadway leading to the grounds and was anxious at that time that the right of way to Siccawei Road should be maintained. Later Mr. Anderson obtained registered ownership of two more lots and it is the holding of these which plaintiffs claim obstructs the right of way, which they contend was provided for by previous owners. The right of way, plaintiffs claim, cannot be considered to have been abandoned on the ground that it has been unused since 1914.

Evidence was given by several witnesses and the hearing was then adjourned.

GREAT SLUGGER AIMS AT SIXTY HOMERS IN '21

Babe Ruth Decides To Better His 1920 Mark This Summer

WANTS TO PITCH, TOO

Requests Yankee Manager To Send Him South With Battery Men

Babe Ruth, the King of Swat, when he returned from a tour of Cuba paid his first official visit to the Yankee offices and spent a pleasant hour or two with his old "buddy," Ed Barrow, business manager of the club.

Ruth, who accumulated a bankroll and also six or seven inches additional girth barnstorming through the provinces and Cuba (though the gossips do say Babe left the island with little to show for his visit except the girth), has solicited Barrow to arrange with Manager Huggins, for the champion home-run hitter of all time to spend two or three weeks at Hot Springs or French Lick before the Yankees go into training at Shreveport, La.

"I am not a bit worried about the weight I have picked up," declared the Babe. "I always pick up every Winter and find it no disadvantage at all. It gives me something to work on through the spring training trip. I like to work hard in the South, and find I can stand the gaff better if I have some fat to lose by the process.

"You will remember," went on the Babe, turning to some newspaper men present, "that you all thought me big as a house when I reported in Jacksonville, Fla., last spring. Well, I was heavier then than I am now, but when the old bell rang I was down almost to weight.

NOT WORRIED OVER WEIGHT

"I never like to be at my lowest weight when the season starts. A few extra pounds furnishes a reserve that guards against staleness later in the grind. You may have noticed during the last two seasons, while I have played the outfield regularly, and during which I hit better than at any previous time in my life, I got more long hits through the last half of the season, when the pitching is undoubtedly at its very best, than in the first three months.

"No, I am not worried about my weight," concluded the Babe. "I naturally must expect to get a little stouter year by year, but I am better physically than I was a year ago. I think the ball I have played since the close of the last championship season will prove a benefit rather than a handicap in the end. I am soon going back to the farm in Massachusetts and will put in six weeks or so of rugged outdoor life, chopping wood and the like. By the time I leave for Hot Springs I should be fit to meet a grizzly."

While not given to braggadoccio Ruth has every confidence in his ability to clout the ball far and often. He declares he never hit harder than in Cuba. But home runs came hard because the fields were boundless as the prairies almost and the outfielders laid so far back it was almost impossible to hit the ball over their heads.

LOOKS FOR BETTER SEASON

Ruth believes he should have a better year in 1921 than his record-breaker of 1920. In the first place he will be more familiar with the Polo Grounds; secondly, he believes he has entirely recovered strength in a weak knee that bothered him considerably through the season of 1919, though less in 1920. The recovery he attributes to the ameliorating effects of Cuba's climate. This prop has not bothered him a bit since it was baked by Cuba's sun, though he submitted it to the most strenuous tests.

"Sixty home runs or more will be my slogan for 1921," said Ruth by way of adieu. "It may sound boastful, but you'll find me there or thereabout next October. That is why I wish to go to Hot Springs or French Lick a couple of weeks ahead of the general assembly at Shreveport."

Furthermore, during the course of his remarks, Ruth dropped a hint or two that may or may not be of special significance. He declared that the visit to Cuba had completely rejuvenated his mighty left arm. Whether or

COLUMBIA CLUB AND S.P.S. WIN AT BASKETBALL

Reds Beaten 42-35; Whites Lose To School Five After Battle

The Columbia Country Club basketball team staged a whirlwind finish in the Foreign League last night and defeated Doc Gray and his Reds quintet by a score of 42-25. The Public School team defeated the Whites, 52 to 29. Both games were hummers.

The Columbians again came through in the last five minutes. The Reds had piled up a sixteen-point lead when the Club switched players. R. B. Nichols shot a couple of goals from midfield and the two long shots meant the turning point in the game. Smith, Porterfield and Captain Nichols were the big factors in the Columbia Club finale while Doc Gray was a whale for the Reds, shooting two long goals that brought the crowd to its feet.

THE SECOND GAME

Although the Public School defeated the whites 52-29, the score does not tell the story of the game. The Whites played excellent basketball the first half and quit one point behind the School quintet. Glauque, Lewis and Petitt were the stars.

American Oarsmen Meet This Afternoon To Plan For International Regatta

Yankees Interested Will Decide Today To Enter Pairs, Fours And Eights; Sailor And Sauer To Act As Coaches

Americans interested in rowing will hold a meeting at the Shanghai Rowing Club this afternoon to make plans for United States representation in the International regatta to be held here in May when the Yankees will compete on the water with representatives of England, Scotland, Canada, Denmark and possibly France and China.

It is hoped that America will enter boats in the pairs, fours and eights races and a wealth of material is available for the crews to sport the colors of the U.S.A. Today's meeting, which is scheduled for 5:30 o'clock, will be held to formulate detailed plans for the campaign to create interest among Americans and arrange for the training of crews.

H. P. Sailor, who will coach the Shanghai Rowing Club interport crews, will be asked to help out with the training of the Americans and Bill Sauer, formerly a star oarsman, has agreed to act in an advisory capacity and thus the Yankees will be handled by two men who know the game. Sauer's work will be to look after the raw men as he knows the fundamentals of rowing from A to Z and has the faculty of being able to impart the knowledge so that the novice aquires it early and easily. Sailor coached and trained college oarsmen in the United States.

Americans interested, whether they ever sat in a boat or not, are urged to attend this afternoon's session and they are assured an equal chance for the crews with the older men if they have the stuff. Coxswains are needed.

Among the men expected to compete for places in the American boats are Paul Chatom, Perry, Core, Ericson, Scholobolm, Saunders, James, Whyte and Edwards.

dividend equalisation and materials equalisation funds, amounts to Taels 1,857,434.30. In view, however, of the proposed reorganisation of the capital, in accordance with particulars which have been in your hands for some time, your Directors consider it advisable to appropriate further Taels 325,000 out of the 1920 profit to reserve fund, and Taels 100,000 to dividend equalisation fund, so that in the event of the issue of 300,000 preference shares and 60,000 ordinary shares being approved of at the extraordinary general meeting, to be held following this meeting, the total of the reserves of the reorganised Company, exclusive of the depreciation fund of Taels 600,000 will exceed ten lakhs; that is to say, 42 percent of the capital of the Company after reorganisation.

"Materials Equalisation Fund. The amount to the credit of this fund still amounts to Taels 134,279.22, and it is proposed to leave this amount untouched, as although the replacing cost of the material today is considerably higher than the average prices at which the Company's stocks appear in the books, this state of affairs might easily be reversed, especially if exchange recovers during the year.

"Sundry Creditors Taels 271,129.93. This amount represents accounts outstanding on December 31, 1920, all of which have since been paid off.

"During the year we have completed and delivered four 2,000-ton steamers, four steel pontoons, two oil barges, three towboats and three motor launches, and also a floating sheerlegs for our own use. We also launched a twin-screw Lights Tender for the Chinese Customs, which has since been delivered, and have in addition carried out an exceptionally large amount of repair work and overhauls of vessels. We have at the moment a considerable amount of tonnage in course of construction, including ocean-going and shallow draft River steamers and other smaller craft.

"This, Gentlemen, is all I have to say, and I shall be pleased to reply to any questions you may be inclined to ask.

The Secretary having read the notice convening the meeting the chairman said:

"A circular has been issued to the shareholders giving particulars of four resolutions which it is proposed to submit to this extraordinary general meeting, but before doing so I would like to make a few remarks thereon in explanation.

"The first resolution is to take power to increase the capital of the Company to five million taels, by the creation of 500,000 preference shares and a further 350,000 ordinary shares. It has for some time been considered by your Directors that the nominal capital of the Company as constituted at the present time is misleading and inadequate.

"It is therefore considered desirable to bring the nominal capital of the Company into closer relationship with the amount of capital actually employed. As you know, a large proportion of money now employed in the business has been built up by the capitalisation of a considerable amount of the profit earned in recent years, for the purpose of development, and also by the premium received on various issues of shares. It is the considered opinion of your Directors that some effort should be made to permanently stabilise a considerable portion of the value of each Shareholder's present holding. A scheme has therefore been evolved to capitalise at the present time one Million Taels of the Company's reserves to be satisfied by the issue of Two Bonus Preference Shares for every one ordinary share now held.

SECOND RESOLUTION

"The second resolution permits this to be done and it will be seen that these preference shares will entitle the holders there of to a fixed cumulative preference dividend of 8 percent per annum, the shares to rank both as regards capital and dividends in priority to the ordinary shares. In view of these very material privileges attached to the preference shares your Directors are of opinion that the par value thereof should always be well maintained and the stabilisation of this part of the Shareholders' interests in the business will thereby be effected.

"Should this resolution be passed now and confirmed at the extraordinary general meeting to be held on the 23rd inst. scrip for the new preference shares will be prepared in the names of shareholders registered in the books at the close of business on that day and will be issued as soon after April 1 as possible. The shares will carry interest as from the 23rd day of March, 1921.

RAISE MORE FUNDS

Resolution three gives powers for the issue of 60,000 of the newly created 350,000 ordinary shares, to be issued at a premium of T. 5.—i. e. at T. 10.—per shares.

"Notwithstanding the extraordinarily successful year through which the Company has just passed, as evidenced by the accounts now in your possession the Company again finds it necessary to raise further funds. The completion of the capital expenditure which has been brought to your notice during the two recent years, requisite to enable the Company to handle the largely increased amount of work it is called upon to perform, and the carrying of larger stocks for the same purpose, both call for further capital.

"I do not think it is necessary for me to say anything in justification of this capital expenditure. It would seem quite sufficient to refer you to the last five profit and loss accounts of the Company from which you will see that each successive year has created a new record in the profits earned. This has in each case been the result of the largely increased work done which it would have been quite impossible for the Company to handle had it not had the necessary equipment which has been put down and is still being installed. I think therefore you will readily agree with me that the Company is fully justified in asking for further capital so fully warranted by past results.

"Should the new issue be approved of, each shareholder will be entitled to take up two new ordinary shares for every five shares registered in his name at the close of business on the 23rd inst. If the resolution is confirmed at the extraordinary general meeting to be held on that day, application forms will be issued to shareholders immediately, and the lists will be kept open until April 15, 1921, by which date shareholders who have not applied for the shares to which they are entitled will be deemed to have declined the offer. These shares will rank for dividend and in all other respects pari passu with the existing ordinary shares of the Company.

"Resolution four calls for no special comment.

AUGMENT RESERVE

"If you approve and pass these resolutions the issued capital of the Company will be T. 2,550,000, the reserves T. 1,082,000 and the depreciation fund T. 600,000, though as I informed you just now the amount of capital actually employed in the business today is over Taels 5,000,000 and with the unissued capital of the Company for raising further funds to finance the expenditure, which may be necessary to enable us to extend our activities, it is considered we shall be in a position to prosecute any attractive proposition.

"Again your Directors consider that much of the protection of the value of the shares of this Company lies in its reserves, and in the reorganisation scheme as now outlined the Company will start off with very handsome reserves which must act as enhanced security to the Shareholders' interests.

Resolutions adopted at the ordinary meeting were as follows:

Resolution 1.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill. That the report and accounts as presented be passed.

Resolution 2.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. C. G. S. Mackie. That a final dividend of Tls. 1.00 per share and a bonus of Tls. 3.00 per share be paid for the year ended December 31 1921.

Resolution 3.—Proposed by Mr. J. S. Cooper, seconded by Mr. J. Ambrose. That the appointment of Mr. A. W. Burkill as a director be confirmed and also that Mr. C. G. S. Mackie be re-elected a director of the Company.

Resolution 4.—Proposed by Mr. J. H. Potts, seconded by Mr. W. T. Jackson. That Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson be re-elected auditors for the Company at a remuneration of Tls. 750.00 per annum.

The resolutions adopted at the extraordinary meeting were as follows:

Resolution 1.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill. That the capital of the Company be increased to Tls. 5,000,000.00:

(a) by the creation of 500,000 preference shares of Tls. 5.00 each

(b) by the creation of 350,000 further ordinary shares of Tls. 5.00 each.

Resolution 2.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill. There shall be allotted to the shareholders out of the reserve fund of the Company as it stands on the twenty-third day of March 1921, Tls. 10 in the form of two fully paid preference shares (of Tls. 5 each) for every share held by them and such preference shares shall entitle the holders thereof to a fixed cumulative preferential dividend of 8 percent on the capital for the time being paid up on such shares and shall rank in a winding-up both as regards capital and dividend in priority to other shares (but shall not confer any further right to participate in profits or surplus assets nor shall they confer any right of voting at any general meeting of the Company nor qualify any person to be a director of the Company).

Resolution 3.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill. That 60,000 of the said 350,000 ordinary shares shall be issued and offered in the first instance at a premium of Tls. 5 per share to the members of the Company in the proportion as nearly as may be of two of such new ordinary shares for every five ordinary shares held by them on the twenty-third day of March 1921, ranking for dividend and in all other respects pari passu with the existing shares of the Company and upon the footing that the full amount of each share taken up plus the premium (making together Tls. 10 per share) shall be paid to the Company on the acceptance of the offer and that such offer be made by notice specifying the number of shares to which the member is entitled and limiting a time within which the offer if not accepted by payment will be deemed to be declined and that the directors be empowered to dispose of the shares not taken in response to such offer as they consider expedient in the interests of the Company.

Resolution 4.—Proposed by Mr. C. S. Mackie, seconded by Mr. A. W. Brankson. That the Articles of Association of the Company be altered in manner following, that is to say, that the following article shall be inserted after Article 125 namely:

"125a. Any general meeting declaring a dividend may direct payment of such dividend wholly or in part by the distribution of specific assets and in particular of paid-up shares, debentures or debenture stock of the Company or of any other Company or in any one or more such ways. Where requisite a proper contract shall be filed in accordance with paragraph 90 of the Companies ordinance, 1911, and the directors may appoint any person to sign such contract on behalf of the persons entitled to the dividend and such appointment shall be effective."

The extraordinary general meeting followed.

not this means he has ambitions to double in brass and pitch a until after the Far Eastern Championship Games. The cable will also suggest that the U.S. Asiatic Fleet enter a strong team in the open meet and will urge that athletes from other warships in Manila be assigned temporarily to the Huron or one of the destroyers so that the Navy may be represented by as strong a team as possible. The Huron will have a star baseball team and one or two of the destroyers have fast nines. Then there is the possibility that the Fleet will enter a picked baseball team if Admiral Strauss acceded to Dr. Gray's request.

few games for Huggins next season remains to be seen. Huggins certainly could use such a sterling left hander.

As late as 1919 Ruth was considered one of the greatest southpaws of all time and pitched a number of brilliant games, though his permanent assignment to the outfield seemed to lessen his desire to shine as a borman. Indeed, Ruth was so eager to canter all his attention on home-run hitting it has been generally believed his alleged loss of southpaw cunning was more or less evasive.

Ruth must have somewhat satiated his appetite for clouting last year. He is showman enough to realise that by taking his regular turn in the box (provided he could come back a pitcher of the 1918 type) he could enhance his popularity with New York fandom. And he could just about guarantee Huggins a pennant in the bargain.

EARLY START LIKELY

In all probability all the batterymen of the Yankees, as well as Ruth, will be invited to take a course of baths at Hot Springs of French Lick before the rest of the team reports at Shreveport. Huggins intimated he was giving the proposition serious thought.

Such a move would not only benefit the mainstays of the pitching box who without exception are well advanced in years, as athletic lives go, but would furnish the best possible practice for the batters from the moment they started to train.

Last spring, in Jacksonville, the veteran pitchers were particularly slow in rounding to form, and the Yankee club—potentially a hard-hitting outfit—was proportionately slow in "finding its eye." The weakness was magnified every time the team was called upon to face the gilt-edged pitching Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers were always ready to provide. The New York team never did hit the size of its collar against Brooklyn, every pitcher of which was at midseason form two weeks before the championships began.

DECIDE TO REDUCE THE ARMY IN INDIA

Viceroy's Council's Decision For 32,500 Cut Causes Uneasiness

ARMY COUNCIL OPPOSES

Proposal Was Carried Through By Means Of Non-Official And Native Votes

London, Jan. 20.—A Reuter dispatch from Delhi says:

"Much uneasiness prevails at the moment in the Indian Army at the decision of the Government to demobilise about a dozen Indian cavalry and over thirty Indian infantry regiments. This means that about 30,000 men and 2,500 British officers will be discharged from the service by the end of March. It is also believed probable that the British forces in India will be reduced by the sending home of two British cavalry and of four British infantry battalions.

"These measures are being adopted partly because the great war is ended and partly owing to the withdrawal of troops from Mesopotmia and to the bad financial outlook in the country and the consequent growing Indian outcry at heavy army expenditures. The Government of India is now considering ways and means of meeting the heavy budget deficit, which seems inevitable owing to the fall in exchange and severe trade depression.

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial headed, "Are We Giving Up India?" takes a very serious view of the announcement contained in this despatch. It says the reduction of the Indian army was not recommended by the Commander-in-Chief in India nor by the Army Council at home, nor by the Viceroy's military advisers.

"These responsible authorities," it says, "are entirely opposed to any diminution of the small army of European soldiers which guards India against invasion and rebellion. It is regarded with equal disfavor by the most highly placed and experienced officials of the Indian Civil Service. Nevertheless it was carried in the Viceroy's Council by the votes of non-official and native members. They objected to the increase of taxation which would be required to maintain the army at its present establishment. The Viceroy was unable or unwilling to insist on this necessary addition to the military budget, and on division the party in favor of ruinous economy was in the majority."

The Daily Telegraph then dwells upon the serious consequences that might follow upon a reduction of the Indian army. It says:

"India is restless and perturbed. A most determined and thoroughly unscrupulous group of agitators is working indefatigably to inflame the public mind and fan all the embers of discontent into a roaring flame. It is and openly professes to be engaged in a crusade of sedition, rebellion and racial hate. It has proclaimed that one of its objects is to make India uninhabitable for English people and impossible for English trade. It does not deny that it will raise an insurrection whenever it thinks it can do so with some chance of success. And what stands between it and this alluring prospect? Nothing but two armies, the white and the brown, and more particularly the former. Take that away, or let it drop below safety mark, and Mr. Ghandi and his Sir Araj friends may pass from non-co-operation to active revolt."

The Daily Telegraph concludes:

"If we really think our mission of usefulness in Southern Asia has reached its limit and that we should now transfer not only the Government of India, but its defense, to its native-born population—if that is what we mean, we had better act up to our convictions and prepare to withdraw with all convenient despatch from the territory. It is suggested that there are influential persons in high places who do, in fact, favor this policy. Then they should tell us so plainly, in justice to our own people who are still remaining in India and still encouraged to take service or to settle there.

"But if, on the other hand, it is the determination of the English people still to fulfill the great and solemn responsibilities they have undertaken in the East, still to retain India within the orbit of the British Empire still to discharge their high duties of guardianship and supervision, there must be no playing with the suicidal policy of scuttle and shirk and no reduction of our armed forces below the necessary minimum, whether it pleases the native politicians of the Viceroy's Council or not."

PASTORS PREACH IN DARK

Pittsburgh, Jan. 20.—Bootleggers scored in the first round of their battle with the Carnegie ministers last Sunday when they cut the electric wires furnishing current to the Baptist, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal and Primitive Methodist Churches during the preaching of sermons on "Prohibition in Carnegie" in each of the five churches at the same time.

The ministers had just launched their sermons when the lights went out. Quick investigation disclosed the main switch controlling the lighting system in each church had been thrown and that the power line outside had been cut.

Despite the darkness the ministers, after telephone communication with one another, decided to finish their sermons. This plan, however, did not prove very successful, as many persons in the congregations left.

Efforts were made to keep the affair secret, and it only became known today.

illages is led to the conclusion at from now on there will, arring epidemic be eight or ten aths weekly to each village, or in e larger towns, to two-hundred so families. "This is no mine," may be said by the eptic. It is not an extraordin- y death-toll for China. In- enza took off a much larger roportion two years ago. But hat the casual passer-by who ils to see heaps of bodies lying the village streets may also fail see is the extraordinary conomic condition of the peasant eople in general. There are me things, also, about their hysical condition, which, owing the camouflage of puffed faces d padded garments, the passerby ay not see. But this I shall ring out with a telling example a later article.

OPULATION AFFECTED

The significant thing is not that proportion of those who are hysically and financially poorly quipped have succumbed, but hat the entire population of the orth China plain, comprising, it ust be somewhere near ten per- nt of the country's population, sinking together in physical itality and economic resources. or the dead, these facts no longer natter: for the living, both in and ut of the effected area, they will ontinue to matter for years. On he physical side, the rising gen- ration will be stunted for life, hysically and mentally. The dis- ontinuance of practically all the chools is only one of the ramifica- ions of the evil. On the economic ide, the effects are even more learly to be seen. This vast and sually highly-productive area vill be for years an economic iability to the industrial and com- nercial life of the nation.

The material resources of these North China peasantry are being trained to the ultimate. Only the Oriental is capable of such a fight. These people are not the "Let us at and drink, for tomorrow we ie," type which we might expect o find. Much scepticism has been aroused from time to time by statements, largely emanating rom the victims themselves, to the effect that "provisions only re- main for so many days longer, and after that the people will starve; relief arriving later than that will be useless." The first investigat- ors of last fall set us a time limit of six weeks. These arbritary da- tum lines of starvation have been passed many times, but still the anticipated deaths in quantity have not eventuated. It is not that the Chinese sufferers have resources for only so many days more."

It is rather that, before this time has been passed, they have discovered other substitutes for food, or other resources which may be turned into food, or a more severe method of rationing where- by they can advance the day when they will be wholly without. The Chinese always speaks from the standpoint of the present. If he be at the time eating two meals a day, he will tell you that he has food for a certain number of days, calculated at the rate of consump- tion and for the quality of food he is eating at the time although he may have in mind to reduce to one meal a day, and dilute the food with some substitute for bulk.

Thus do these people exhaust their last resort, draining, at the same time, their every material re- source, we met one old woman, staggering to town under her spinning wheel, she was going to "eat" that for a few days, she said. A more complete illustration is the history of a peasant woman of Ta Yueh Chwang, "Big Moon Village," over the Grand Canal into Chihli from Tehchow county. This woman, under her matter hair and coated skin, had heroic, stuff. Her husband fled when he his land failed to produce a crop last fall, leaving her with six small children.

MOTHER SELLS GIRLS

First she sold what she had in the way of livestock—a little don- key and some hens. Then the farming implements. Then the kitchen utensils and rude house- hold furnishings. Seven mouths quickly ate up the small amounts she received for these things. There came the day in the bitterest part of winter when she was faced with the necessity of parting with a portion of her family. Her ethics demanded that she sacrifice the girls to the boys. Therefore she sold the three girls.

This took her through to Chin- ese New Year. The fruit-trees in her yard brought a few coppers as fuel. There was no buyer for land. She began to tear down the buildings ranged around the farm- yard, chien by chien, to procure the few inflammable materials used in their construction. The wooden beams and door frames she sold, the thatch she used to cook her chaff cakes. When we found her she had retreated chien by chien, tearing down her home as she went, until but a hovel consisting of part of the last remaining room of the wrecked house remained to shelter her unclothed children, and but one beam sagging on its mudwall supports, remained be- tween the four lives and the most dreaded of deaths.

It is with such a spirit that these people fight, inch by inch, the wolf of starvation. But their country is being made barren, desolate. In the sand-dune coun- try between Chinghou, here, and Weihsien, Chihli, the fruit trees, where orchards are the only prod- uct, are being cut down. In dis- tricts so many timbers from wrecked houses have been placed upon the market that both build- ing and fuel wood is worth half what it is in normal years—a case where famine has an opposite to the ordinary effect upon prices.

LAND VALUES FALL

There is some buying up for speculation, as timbers during the next few years, when these houses will have to be rebuilt, will be at a high price. But there is pathe- tically little money even for pro- fiteering, in the country. Land, worth normally thirty dollars a mou has been offered for one dol- lar, and gone without a buyer. The bandits have missed a few wealthy countrymen, but these dare not begin to accumulate, for fear of attracting attention and bringing the bands down upon them.

It can be easily gathered that a few thousand bushels of grain are not going to put this country back on its feet. If in the heart of China, as in the heart of Europe today, there is not to lie for years an economically prostrated region, a helping hand will have to be ex- tended to its people long after the coming spring crop is garnered. A succession of many good crops will be required to rebuild the houses of these peasants, and re- supply them with the farming and household implements and utensils which had been their legacy from their forefathers—the accumula- tions of the frugality of genera- tions. An appropriation to bring in next fall some carloads of farm implements and roof-timbers to be sold at cost or given to the worthy de-homed would be splendid philanthropy. There are some things, however, which can never be brought back, as, for instance, the fruit trees—and the daughters.

Rubber Output Is Cut Thirty Percent

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 7.—It is esti- mated that the outputs for Janu- ary on the estates of members of the Rubber Growers Association, who agreed to restriction, have fallen thirty percent. It is under- stood that the government scheme for assisting the industry in the Malay States has been referred to the Colonial Office but an offi- cial decision has not yet been de- livered. The prospects of the scheme being of real service to planters would seem, says The Times, to be jeopardised by delay.

Such drastic economies have been effected in Ceylon that many estates can pay their way temporarily even at the present prices, and consequently Ceylon companies are content to abide by the original twenty-five per- cent reduction plan.

Shanghai Tug And Lighter Co.

The eighteenth annual general meeting of the Shanghai Tug and Lighter Company was held at the office of the agents, 2 French Bund, yesterday afternoon when 9,059 shares were represented.

Mr. John Prentice, the chairman said:

"Gentlemen: Before proceeding with the meeting it is my painful duty to refer to the death during the year of our co-director and friend, Mr. Geoffrey M. Wheelock. It is unnecessary for me to tell you of the interest Mr. Wheelock had in the company both as a director and as the senior partner of Messrs. Wheelock and Co. our agents, and it is with the deepest regret that we record his early death and great loss to the company and ourselves.

"The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, with your permission, we will take them as read. We consider the result of the year's work is very satisfactory.

"The amount available for dis- tribution after the payments on July 15 last of an interin dividend of 3½ percent on the preference shares and 8 percent on the ordin- ary shares amounting to Taels 57,500.00 is Taels 329,804.48 which we recommend should be dealt with as follows:

	Tls.
Pay a final dividend of 3½ percent on preference	17,500.00
Pay a final dividend of Tls. 4=16 per- cent on ordinary shares	80,000.00
Place to general reserve	160,000.00
Write off depreciation on coat of tug "St. Dominic"	15,000.00
And carry forward	57,304.48

"The placing of Taels 160,000.00 to the general reserve will bring it up to Taels 435,000.00.

"The fleet has been maintained in the usual first class condition and all repairs et cetera have been charged to working account.

"You will see by the profit and loss account that Taels 30,000.00 have been written off for deprecia- tion.

"The additions to the fleet dur- ing the year were:

Six (6) 300 ton D. W. steel lighters. Payment has been received for the tug "Samson" and the amount in excess of her book value has been credited to profit and loss account.

"With regard to the tug "St. Dominic," this vessel has done very good work during the year under review and we think it is just as well for shareholders to realise they now have a salvage tug capable of tackling any salvage work or towage."

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolution 1.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. H. M. Tibbey, that the report and accounts as presented be adopted.

Resolution 2.—Proposed by the chairman and seconded by Mr. J. Harold Dollar, that the amount at the credit of the Profit and Loss Account be distributed as follows:

	Tls.
To a final dividend of 3½ percent on 10,000 pref- erence shares	17,500.00
To a final dividend of Tls. 4 per share on 20,000 ordinary shares	80,000.00
To General Reserve	160,000.00
To Write off Depreciation on tug "St. Dominic"	15,000.00
To carry forward	57,304.48
	Tls. 329,804.48

Resolution 3.—Proposed by Mr. F. Ayscough, seconded by Mr. A. K. Craddock, that Mr. John Prentice and Mr. H. W. Leste be re-elected directors of the company.

Resolution 4.—Proposed by Mr. E. G. Barrett, seconded by Mr. T. A. Clark, that Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Mathews be re-elected auditors of the company.

Resolution 5.—Proposed by Mr. T. A. Clark, seconded by Mr. F. Ayscough, that a bonus be paid to the staff of not less than 20 percent of their salaries.

OIL

American Producers & Refiners Inc.

Offer you

AN INVESTMENT OF RARE MERIT

combining with it

A speculative element of unlimited possibilities.

Because they have an assured supply of crude oil. Because the oil is high in gasoline content. Because they own their own re- finery and drilling machinery. Because the oil is encountered at a depth of less than 1000 feet and consequent drilling costs are low. Because they have a market waiting for the refined product. And because of many other natural advantages those who are familiar with the LaBarge-Piney Oil Fields of Wyoming consider them to be America's most valuable oil territory; and the American Producers & Refiners Inc. believe they are offering an investment which will yield a permanent income

Would it interest you to have a small sum of money invested in a manufacturing enterprise and to know that every dollar may multiply itself forty or fifty times within a few months.

Wyoming is now one of the six leading States in oil production and is believed to be destined to become the leader. Almost every county in the State is oil producing. The LaBarge-Piney fields, where our lands are situated, are proven lands and produce the highest grade of crude of any fields in America.

The business of the American Producers & Refiners Inc. is prim- arily refining of crude oil and will consist in taking oil from our own and adjoining wells and making it into gasoline and the other pro- ducts and by-products of the crude oil. The supply of the crude is assured for many years to come and the market for the refined product is a local one. Lincoln County in which our property is located, and the surrounding territory, will absorb the entire output of our refinery. The stock of the company may be worth many times its par value within a year after it is issued and this due entirely to the refinery and not depending for one dollar on the land values held by Company. If the land proves up equally with the lands surrounding it, as we naturally expect it will there will be almost no limit to the possibilities.

A study of the following table will give some idea of the profits of the refining business. The estimate of earnings is based on a refinery similar to ours, having a 300 barrel daily capacity, 42 gals, per barrel, the oil sold for local consumption in and around the dis- trict where it is produced.

LAND HOLDINGS.

This company holds under lease 1933 acres of land. Forty acres of this land is proven oil land and has been appraised by experts as worth one million dollars. Drilling on this forty will start in the early spring. It is surrounded by producing wells from which a paraffine base oil, of high gasoline content, is obtained. The oil sands have a thickness of over 100 feet and are reached at a depth of between 578 and 1000 feet. It is estimated that this forty acres alone when properly drilled will supply our refinery for thirty years to come. The balance of the land has been selected by careful refer- ence to the anticlinal structure of the field which is now considered by leading oil geologists of the country as the greatest potential oil field in America. The company plans to develop these land as rapidly as possible and run through its refinery the product of its own wells. The companys holdings will be added to from time to time as opportunity permits and such lands will be acquired as may be considered, by its officers, as sound and worthy of development.

POSSIBILITIES FROM A SPECULATIVE STANDPOINT

During the coming summer many drilling rigs will be working to prove the value of our extensive holdings. Eminent geologists, who have studied the structure and formations, do not hesitate to say that the whole structure, forty five miles long and fourteen miles wide, is oil bearing. They know that it produces oil at one end of the structure and they also know that it is unbroken for forty-five miles. If it proves up as the geologists claim that it will, it will outrival any oil discovery ever made in America. The development period will be very rapid, and the coming summer will tell all that is to be known. If the lands are all proven to be oil bearing they should make every dollar invested in this company worth $50.00 or more. If they prove to be an absolute failure and entirely dry the stockholders will still have the profits of the refining business and from the lands already developed sufficient oil is assured for thirty years to come.

Some idea of the immense profits which may be realized can be gained by a glance at the following table which shows what the in- vestment of one hundred dollars actually did realize in the following companies:

EXPORTS

Despite the decline in exchange and the fact that most China produce is now within prewar limits, business is very scarce. Beyond a little business in Goatskins and Hides there is little doing. Sesamum Seed is again enquired for.

IMPORTS

A small demand for Blacks and Greys has made its appearance and some business has been done at prices which show a distinct improvement on those ruling before the China New Year. Clearances fair.

The Allies Move

YESTERDAY the Allies began, by the exertion of their enormous military power, to press Germany for payment of the war indemnity and to force her to the observance of her obligations under the Treaty of Peace. In the words of Lloyd George, the German counter-proposals challenged and mocked the Treaty of Peace. Now come the penalties. The first moves as set forth by the British Premier are to be the following:

First.—We shall occupy the towns of Duisburg, Ruhrort and Duesseldorf, on the right bank of the Rhine.

Second.—The Allies will obtain powers from their respective Parliaments requiring their nationals to pay a certain proportion of all payments due to Germany on German goods to their several Governments, such proportion to be retained on account of reparations; that is, in respect of goods purchased in any Allied country from Germany.

Third.—The amount of duties collected by German custom-houses on the external frontiers of occupied territories will be paid to the Reparations Commission. These duties will continue to be levied in accordance with the German tariff. A line of custom-houses will be temporarily established on the Rhine and at the boundary of bridge-heads occupied by the Allies' troops. The tariff to be levied on this line, both on the entry and export of goods, will be determined by the Allied Commissioner of the Rhine Territory, in conformity with instructions from the Allied Governments.

The German claim is that by proceeding in this way the Allies are smashing the Treaty of Peace and releasing Germany from her commitments under that treaty. This is quite in character. As a matter of fact Germany has failed to live up to her signed obligations, has evaded fulfilment in a hundred ways; and the Allies are now moving to put an end to German evasion and procrastination. They are upholding, rather than abrogating, the treaty. So much for that.

The most interesting question that arises, now that the die is cast, is: What are the Germans going to do about it? Are they prepared to submit to one new occupation after another? Or, are they planning a surprise? A communist outbreak? A monarchical restoration?

It is our belief that it doesn't matter much what schemes they have afoot. Eventually they will have to submit. The Allies are too strong for them. Big business in Germany knows this, and we feel sure that the heads of commercial and industrial Germany will stand firmly for peace, for payment and for submission. They have millions of dollars' worth of goods in England and France, consigned to British and French merchants and millions more on ships going all over the world. They nor any other Germans wish to forfeit these goods or the money involved, and military resistance to the Allies at this time would involve much graver penalties than merely such forfeiture.

An alliance with Soviet Russia? This avenue of escape from payment of the bill, dismal, abhorrent, repellant at all times to the average German, offers less chance of success today than ever before, for Sovietism is slowly being strangled to death, and by the Russian people themselves.

Meantime, while we await developments along the Rhine, how is the position of Germans and German goods in China affected by the events of yesterday and Monday? Many Germans have returned to China, especially to Shanghai, and they are reported to be doing a good deal of business. In this connection it is interesting to bear in mind that China is still at war with Germany. China refused to sign the Treaty of Peace because of the Shantung award. That same award, more than anything else, restrained the United States from signing the Treaty of Peace. China and the United States are in the same boat insofar as being at war with Germany is concerned. The repercussions of the moves along the Rhine will be felt markedly in both countries.

Everything, of course, depends upon how Germany takes her present dose.

'My Dear Wells' —Postscript

Further correspondence from Henry Arthur Jones, aimed at H. G. Wells, has been sent to The London Evening Standard. In answering Mr. Wells's charge of "everlasting hooting and lying," Mr. Jones says:

"In a letter (July, 1918) published by the editor of an American magazine (quoted in The New York Weekly Review of Dec. 15, 1920) Mr. Wells has written of Lenin as follows: 'Lenin is a little beast like this (drawing of Lenin). He just wants power. . . . He doesn't want order. . . . He's a rotten little incessant egotistical intriguer. He..... ought to be killed by some moral sanitary authority.' Recently Mr. Wells has fraternised with Lenin in the Kremlin and has called him, to be exact in placing the adjectives, 'Lenin, beloved of all that is energetic in Russia.'

"It is upon such pitiable quibles that Mr. Wells brings against me a wholesale charge of everlasting hooting and lying.' ***

"We have amongst us a group of 'thinkers' and writers who seem determined to pull the British Empire to pieces. I call them the 'Haters of England.' They always 'think' against their own country. If there is sedition and revolt in any part of the empire, they stir it up. If there is trouble at home, they foment it. Many of them are violent Internationalists with respect to the British Empire, but active, fervent patriots with respect to Ireland, India, and Egypt. During the war they were worth many army corps to Germany. Now the war is over and we are beset with new insecurities and perils, these haters of England are busy with new intrigues against their country. Now that it is of sovereign necessity that our nation should gather itself in one great unity of aim and effort to ward off disaster, these haters of England are busy spreading disaffection and disunion both in our internal and in our foreign affairs.

"Mr. Wells is one of the most influential of these 'thinkers' and writers who always 'think' and write against England. ***

"What I am trying to show in my letters to 'My dear Wells' is that his theories are not merely false, ill considered, unworkable, tending toward international disorder and chaos, but that, apart from the tragic mischief and misery they may cause, they are a compound of crazy but most delightful absurdities. For this reason I have chosen a tone and method of controversy which I do not commend for wide imitation, which I should not have used with an opponent of a different mental calibre from Mr. Wells, but which I think may be the most effectual for the purpose I have in view. That purpose is to show the incredible foolishness, as well as the vicious unsoundness, of the views and opinions so widely spread by those 'thinkers' and writers whom I have named the haters of England. I wish to expose the quality of the thinking that inhabits and inflames their minds, and upon which they build their whole system of obstruction to the unity and security of the empire and excite their fellow citizens to work for its disorganisation and dismemberment."

New Army Schools Fit Men For Business And Industry

Soldier Equipped For Success As Citizen When He Completes His Term Of Service

BY COLONEL R. I. REES
General Staff, United States Army

The army, with the able assistance of civilian educators, has recently engaged in the development of a system of education which has as its objective to cultivate:

First. Civic capacities necessary to enable the individual to work creatively in society and to contribute productively to the economic, social, political and intellectual life of his community.

Second. Civic intelligence, which includes the information and knowledge which must be acquired in the process of developing his civic capacities in order to make them effective in conduct.

Third. Civic attitudes and habits of mind and heart which express themselves in a disposition to serve the community and the nation for the best interests of all.

The conviction that general and vocational education are essential elements in the training of an army was formed long before the war. It was formally expressed in section 27 of the National Defense Act of June 3, 1916, which states: "In addition to military training, soldiers while in the active service shall hereafter be given the opportunity to study and receive instruction upon educational lines of such character as to increase their military efficiency and enable them to return to civil life better equipped for industrial, commercial and general business occupations."

WISDOM PROVED BY WAR

The wisdom of this provision was amply demonstrated by the war experience. While little difficulty was encountered in finding enough well educated and technically trained men to officer and equip an army of 500,000 men, trouble multiplied in geometric ratio as the size of the army increased. In its efforts to cope with this unprecedented situation, the War Department was compelled, before it could organize the authorised military forces, to give an enormous amount of intensive general education and vocational training. Schools were established at army camps. Development battalions were organised. And when these agencies proved inadequate the colleges and technical schools were drafted in the service.

In addition, the national welfare societies were called in and, supported by liberal gifts from a united people, did priceless work in supplying clean and healthy recreation, and in ministering to the moral and spiritual life of the soldiers. When the armistice was signed it was education and recreation which supplied the the means of maintaining the morale of the army in the painful period of waiting for the boat home.

Because education recreation and moral training were thus found to be indispensable elements in mobilizing an efficient fighting army, they have now been incorporated into the regular training programme of the army. A definite organisation has been set up for conducting the work, and Congress is supporting it with annually increasing appropriations. During the past year it has proved to be the most effective means of maintaining the enlisted strength of the army, both in quantity and in quality. More than 60 percent of the new recruits enter the service because of the opportunities now offered for personal development and growth.

The present Army course in general education consists of a series of discussions of vital problems. These problems are selected to appeal to one or more of the soldier's fundamental instincts, and each one depicts a specific situation which calls for action directed toward improvement. The discussion consists of an analysis of the situation, both from the point of view of the facts and experiences involved and also from the point of view of its moral import. Information additional to that already possessed by the class is supplied by reading matter and references for study, which have been selected so as to increase the student's knowledge of the subject, and to define the moral issues involved. The discussion is guided by the teacher, so that the class is eventually led to a conclusion which is agreed to be the best solution from the point of view of a square deal and of more liberal opportunities for growth in social, economic and industrial life.

TWO PERIODS FOR EDUCATION

The work in general education in the Army is given two consecutive periods each day. The first is devoted to the discussion just outlined, and the second is used for training in written and oral expression. In the latter the soldiers write or state orally their conclusions concerning the problems of the previous hour. Their work is criticised from the point of view of clear expression, and they are drilled in spelling, in penmanship, in punctuation and in composition.

The two periods contain all the instruction given the elementary students in the basic subjects in general education, such as reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic geography, history and civics. Special courses in algebra, geometry, science, economics and history are offered for more advanced students after they have completed the general course.

He Paid For Her

They met at a dance. He was tall and talwart, she—oh, so sweet! They jazzed, they whirled, they—well, they did just what everybody could do. After the seventh dance with his charmer, the young man stopped suddenly and glanced suspiciously round. "It's funny, Mabel," he said. "See that glum-looking chap over there. He's been following us about all the time. Who is he and what's he after?" "Who—that miserable, half-starved fellow with the spotted tie?" remarked Mabel casually. "Don't worry about him; he's only the fellow who paid for me to come in."

Quite Safe

Billie: "Don't you know that tobacco is deadly? Why, a drop of nicotine on a dog's tongue will kill him." Timson: "Well, a quart of it on a dog's tongue couldn't hurt me."

Harding is President. Is he the first newspaper man to hold the highest position that the state can offer? I know not. But my American history is notoriously weak. I can call to mind a date 1776, but it gives me little or no pleasure. That date, however, doesn't in any way enter into today's colyum.

Harding is a newspaperman. It was Kipling who wrote:

The soldier may forget his sword,
The Sailorman his sea,
The Mason may forget his word,
And the Priest his Litany:
The maid may forget both jewel and gem,
And the bride her wedding dress—
But the Jew shall forget Jerusalem
Ere we forget the Press.

The Pope may launch his Interdict,
The Union its decree,
But the bubble is blown, and the bubble is pricked,
By US and such as WE.
Remember the battle and stand aside
While Thrones and Powers confess,
That king over all the children of pride
Is the Press—the Press—the Press!

(I'll bet ye editor let's that pass? ! ?)

At present I cannot get away from the new President, and his predecessor. It is still his predecessor that figures most prominently in my thoughts. After eight years—eight years of power—eight years of glory—and then?

THE INSTABILITY OF HUMAN GLORY

"Sir," wrote Daniel Defoe, "I have employed myself of late pretty much in the study of history, and have been reading the stories of the great men of past ages, Alexander the Great, Julius Caeser and the great Augustus, and many more down, down down, to the still greater Louis Fourteenth, and to the still greatest John, Duke of Marlborough."

In my way I have met with Tamerlane, the Scythian, Tomornbejus the Egytian, Solyman the Magnificent, and others of the Mahametan or Ottoman race; and after all the great things they have done, I find it said of them all, one after another,

And then they died!

All dead, dead, dead. Hic jacet, is the finishing part of their history. Some lie in the bed of honor, and some in honor's truckle bed; some were bravely slain in battle on the field of honor, some in the storm of a counterscarp and died in the ditch of honor; some here, some there;—the bones of the bold and the brave, the cowardly and the base, the hero and the scoundrel, are heaped up together;—and they lie in oblivion and under the ruins of the earth, undistinguished from one another, nay, even from the common earth.

Huddled in dirt the blustering engine lies.
That was so great, and thought himself so wise.

How many hundreds and thousands of the bravest fellows then in the world lie on heaps in the ground, whose bones are to this day ploughed up by the rustics, or dug up by the laborer, and the earth their more noble parts are converted to, has been perhaps applied to the meanest uses!

How have we screened the ashes of heroes to make our mortar, and mingled the remains of a Roman general to make a hog sty! Where are the ashes of a Caeser, and the remains of a Pompey, a Scipio, or a Hannibal? All are vanished, they and their very monuments are moulded into earth, their dust is lost and their place knows them no more. They live only in the writings of their historians and poets, the renowned datterers of the age they lived in, and who have made us think of the persons, not as they really were, but as they were pleased to represent them.

As with the greatest men, so even with the longest lived. The Methuselahs of the antideluvian world! The accounts of them all end the same. Methuselah lived nine hundred sixty and nine years and begat sons and daughters—and what then?

And then they died!

Death like an overflowing stream
Sweeps us away; and life's a dream.

But nothing would be worth while if the end were "And then he died."

We know it is not so. The seed dieth to release its life, that a harvest may be reaped. The great man only dies that the finite might give rise to the infinite.

The instability of human glory is our surest knowledge of the stability of Celestial Glory.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

New Light On Jefferson

Remarkable Versatility Of Third President Shown By Virginia Researches

New facts about Thomas Jefferson have been brought to light by Dr. Philip Alexander Bruce, the historian, who has just completed four years of research work in assembling material for his "Centennial History of the University of Virginia." The university will celebrate its one hundredth anniversary in June.

The Virginia historian offers evidence to show that the author of the Declaration of Independence, and the third President of the United States, was even more versatile than has been supposed, combining proficiency as a statesman, architect, inventor, farmer and horticulturist, archaeologist, surgeon and musician.

According to Dr. Bruce, all of Jefferson's endeavors were of a practical nature. He was responsible for a botanical garden at the university, but insisted that the plants selected should be only those which are "useful in nature." He is credited with importing the first reaping machine from Europe to Virginia. He also brought strains of foreign stock, including sheep, hogs and cattle, in Albemarle County to better the local breeds. He put himself to considerable inconvenience while abroad to procure rice and olives to test the soil of South Carolina, and the importance of the former as a product of that State may be traced to Jefferson's early experiments.

Thorn hedges which now surround many Albemarle farms were planted at Jefferson's suggestion, following lengthy experiments and correspondence with horticulturists. He was searching for a suitable hedge to supplant ugly and irregular fences and decided upon the thorn fence after unsuccessfully trying holly, haw, cedar and locust. He frequently distributed seeds, roots and plants to his friends, states Dr. Bruce, and his garden book brings to light a long course of other experiments with vegetables and fruit.

The former President refused to allow interest and pleasure in his search for knowledge to be interrupted or diverted, and in 1798, while war was threatening with France, he is found carrying on correspondence regarding the discovery of wild horses on the Western prairies. During the following year, when the Federalists and Republicans were in bitter controversy, he was keenly interested in the progress of Watt's new steam engine.

The records show that in 1801, when his chances for the Presidency were wavering in the balance, Jefferson was in correspondence with experts about such subjects as: The origin of mammoth bones unearthed in Ulster County, N. Y.; nativity of wild turkey and the influence of the moon upon changes in the weather.

In 1808, when war between the United States and Great Britain seemed near, a room in the White House was heaped high with a wagonload of bones from the prehistoric beds of Big Lick. These were forwarded to the Executive Mansion at the expressed wish of Mr. Jefferson. It was Jefferson who dispatched Lewis and Clarke upon their exploration tour of the Northwest and who was first to receive a report of the findings of the two intrepid adventurers.

The Sage of Monticello was keenly interested in the fine arts and was himself an accomplished violinist. The present School of Fine Arts at the university, a recent endowment gift, is modeled along lines which Jefferson suggested in his correspondence and in his original scheme for the university courses. Dr. Bruce finds numerous references to his skill in setting broken legs and sewing up wounds. Dr. Dunglison, a member of the original Faculty of the University of Virginia, frequently remarked that Jefferson could have been a master of surgery.

Jefferson's interest in the submarine and torpedo is evidenced in letters to Robert Fulton. These contain recommendations that a corps be educated and trained for the exclusive use and perfection of these devices. Jefferson was the inventor of a mold board for a plow which won the approval of the English Board of Agriculture and a gold medal from the Society of Paris. Other inventions include a walking cane which could be spread out for use as a chair, a machine for duplicating signatures which closely resembles modern bank duplicating machines, and a bulky odometer, with which he measured the mileage of his coach. The two latter devices are now in the relic cabinet of the university.

An invention which antedated all thoughts of prohibition was a device by which a full decanter might be passed more rapidly around the table, and Dr. Bruce slyly questions whether this contrivance was created because of the inventive turn of mind or because of the conviviality of Jefferson.

Apart from his statesmanship, it was as an architect that Jefferson appears to have made some of his greatest contributions to the nation. A few of his drawings date back to 1769. His own home, Monticello, and the buildings of the University of Virginia, which he designed, are considered among our finest examples of classic architecture.

That architecture was almost a passion with the former President may be gained from this excerpt from a letter to the Comtesse de Tesse: "Here I am, Madame, gazing whole hours at the Maison Carree like a lover at his mistress . . . this is the second time I have been in love since I left Paris. The first was with a Diana at the Chateau de Sage Espanage in Beaujolais. This, you will say, was in rule to fall in love with female beauty. No, Madame, it is not without a precedent in my own history; while in Paris, I was violently smitten with the Hotel de Salm."

The Friendly Potato

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH,
(An Acknowledged Authority on All Matters Pertaining to Household Management)

Every now and then when the potatoes in the places where I am forced to eat are so badly cooked for such long periods, I feel it a duty to the friendly potato to say something in its behalf. Scientific cooks have found out lots of things about the potato which every housewife ought to know, for, while potatoes are practically all alike, they are as different as the poles when they are served to us in the same style by two different cooks.

Every time you serve mashed potatoes, they should be creamy mashed potatoes. To prepare these for four servings, put to boil sufficient water to well cover the potatoes you intend to cook. This will be boiling by the time you have the potatoes prepared. Select potatoes uniform in size. If some are much larger than the rest, cut the large ones in half so as to be about the same size as the smaller ones. This will help to have all the potatoes cooked at the same time.

Scrub and thinly pare the potatoes. Drop into the boiling water and reduce the flame so that the potatoes bubble gently. If potatoes are permitted to boil in rapidly boiling water, the outside will wear off from the action of the water before the inside is cooked.

After the potatoes have been cooking about ten minutes, add one level teaspoonful of salt for about every four potatoes. When done, which may be ascertained by testing with a sterile knitting needle, drain the water from the potatoes. Then shake the potatoes in the pot vigorously until all are broken. This is very important. The steam escapes instead of recondensing and making the potatoes soggy or watery.

Then, melt a level tablespoonful of butter or butter substitute in three tablespoonfuls of milk. Add half a level teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of pepper. Mash the potatoes with fork or wire masher and, when free from lumps, gradually beat in the warmed milk and butter. More milk may be desirable.

"Stuffed baked potato" is one of the very delightful ways of serving certain left-overs. Uniformly large potatoes should be chosen for this dish. The oven should be so arranged that it will be hot when the potatoes are ready. Scrub the potatoes thoroughly, rinse them and then dry them. Grease each with a bit of soft paper dipped in melted fat or oil. Place the potatoes on a baking plate in the oven and bake from forty minutes to one hour, turning frequently, so that they may bake evenly.

As soon as they are done cut in half lengthwise. With a teaspoon carefully scoop out the white, fluffy portion and reserve the shells or skins. Bits of ham or chicken or minced onion all make palatable combinations.

The potatoes should be stuffed back into the shells that have been reserved and heaped high. Before being replaced in the oven each should be brushed with milk to help in creating the attractive, crisp, brown top.

Too many folks make indigestible "fried" potatoes when they find themselves in possession of a few left-over cold boiled potatoes. Instead it would be much better to make up a toothsome dish of creamed potatoes. Dice four of these cooked potatoes. In a small saucepan rub together two level tablespoons of flour and the same quantity of butter. Add one-half pint of milk and cook, stirring until the sauce boils. Add one-half level teaspoon of salt and reheat the potatoes in this sauce. Sprinkle finely cut parsley over just before serving.

To vary this dish place the creamed potatoes in a baking dish and sprinkle with cheese. Place in the oven until cheese is melted and slightly browned.

In the diet the potato is especially valuable for its anti-scorbutic property. It has a tendency to counteract scurvy, which is often the result of too much meat in the diet. In this way the potato is superior to rice.

Potatoes give us power to do work. And so we who cook them should try to cook them properly.

Why He Remained Home

Jacky Jones was late for Sunday school and the minister inquired the cause.

"Please, sir," said Jacky, "I was going fishing, but father wouldn't let me."

"Fishing on Sunday!" said the minister, severely. "Of course your father wouldn't let you—you've got the right kind of father, my boy!"

"Please, sir," put in Jacky, "father wouldn't let me go because he said there wasn't enough bait for two!"

THE CATHOLIC BIG BROTHER
(New York Times)

Building good citizens for the future out of the most unpromising material is the work of the Catholic Big Brothers. They co-operate with the Children's Court in finding boys who are most in need of physical, mental and moral care. The helping hand of a real "big brother" is held out to youths who are criminally inclined, misguided, poor or sick, and those who are living in environments of evil influence. Thousands of boys have been saved from penal institutions and lives of degradation through the efforts of this organisation.

Cardinal Farley, in a letter to the Hon. Cornelius F. Collins, President of the Catholic Big Brothers, said, in part:

"In these days, when so many efforts are being made to assist every one needing help and when every form of misery attracts our sympathy, those who are beginning to make a failure of their lives should be given special attention.

"From such an effort on the part of our laymen to aid their pastors in reclaiming the young from evil ways, and in preventing those exposed to corruption from being contaminated, great and happy results must accrue."

Once a year, during the Christmas season, the Catholic Big Brothers ask the aid of the public to obtain funds for continuing their activities. The annual benefit entertainment took place at the Hippodrome Dec. 26. Mme. Frances Alda headed the list of those who sang at the concert.

THE CATHOLIC BIG BROTHER
(New York Times)

Building good citizens for the future out of the most unpromising material is the work of the Catholic Big Brothers. They co-operate with the Children's Court in finding boys who are most in need of physical, mental and moral care. The helping hand of a real "big brother" is held out to youths who are criminally inclined, misguided, poor or sick, and those who are living in environments of evil influence. Thousands of boys have been saved from penal institutions and lives of degradation through the efforts of this organisation.

Cardinal Farley, in a letter to the Hon. Cornelius F. Collins, President of the Catholic Big Brothers, said, in part:

"In these days, when so many efforts are being made to assist every one needing help and when every form of misery attracts our sympathy, those who are beginning to make a failure of their lives should be given special attention.

"From such an effort on the part of our laymen to aid their pastors in reclaiming the young from evil ways, and in preventing those exposed to corruption from being contaminated, great and happy results must accrue."

Once a year, during the Christmas season, the Catholic Big Brothers ask the aid of the public to obtain funds for continuing their activities. The annual benefit entertainment took place at the Hippodrome Dec. 26. Mme. Frances Alda headed the list of those who sang at the concert.

ANGLO-SAXON PACT TO CURB JAPAN IS SEEN

Virtual League Of English-Speaking Nations Is Forecast In London

SENSE OF COMMON POLICY

Imperial Conference Of All British Possessions In Spring To Show Trend

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER

London, Jan. 5.—The English-speaking peoples of the world will be drawn together in what amounts to a league of nations as a result of the Japanese immigration problem, is the opinion of many official and unofficial observers of events of the past few weeks.

The imperial conference, at which representatives of the various dominions of the British empire will meet to discuss questions of common policy, will be held in London in the spring, and it is predicted that at that time agreements will be reached on the Japanese question which will unite English-speaking peoples as never before. There is a growing realisation of the fact that they have much in common.

That Canada and Australia should show such a desire to accept the American attitude in the Pacific has caused much surprise in London and has created a deep impression in official circles. Whatever were Britain's intentions regarding the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, it is now certain that any future treaty between them will be of much smaller scope than the old one. The British have been compelled to declare that under no consideration would they take sides against the United States in the event of a conflict between the Japanese and America, and while it is true no British statesman has gone so far as to commit Britain to the side of America in case of such a conflict, Japan is not likely to get much satisfaction out of British utterances, either official or unofficial, of the last two weeks.

In connection with this question there has been much recent discussion over the proposition of a five-year holiday in naval construction. While it is conceded that such a plan would enable Britain to concentrate on its merchant marine and save the country millions of pounds, the plan is not supported by British naval authorities any more than it is by Admiral Coontz and other American naval chiefs.

A NEW PARIS SEERESS

She Tells Fortunes By Observing Clients' Breath On A Mirror

Paris, Dec. 20.—A new fortune teller, with a new way of telling fortunes, has come to Paris from the country, and on the strength of a post card from President Millerand, thanking her for having predicted his election to his present office, has got herself launched with excellent publicity.

Her name is Mme. Urbe Darville, the home of romance. She displaces all ancient methods. The only appliance she uses in order to reveal the future is a mirror. On this her clients breathe, and by a special method, which she declares is all her own, Mme. Darville fixes the mark of the breath on the glass. Then at her leisure she proceeds to examine it. Every one's breath, it seems, traces a different pattern.

This morning she held her first seance and chose as her clients a number of newspaper men. That she should surprise many with her knowledge of their past and her views of their future was inevitable, for she is evidently a shrewd sorceress. Unless the police interfere, there seems to be a great career before thesseeress who predicted so accurately for M. Millerand.

THE SPECTACULAR SENSATION: A DRAMA TO HAUNT YOU

6 PARTS
A FLAMING DRAMA OF THE POWER OF GOLD. THRILLING WITH ACTION

MONEY— bought her gowns and diamonds.

MONEY— bought her soul.

New York's upper and lower social strata furnish the background for this colorful drama of those who market the souls of weak men and women for gold. It is a high-class melodrama in which figure the rich man who is the underworld king; a fighting newspaper reporter; a weak and wayward girl; another girl who offsets the evil of ill-gotten money by deeds of charity; a reformed crook; a Chinaman with a self-sacrificing love for a white girl; a loving mother, and a hero-worshiping boy.

Herein is blended romance that is exquisite in its unselfishness, intrigue that is sinister, dangerous and powerful, and humor that is wholesome and natural, making a drama that touches the heart with its tenderness, baffles the brain with its intrigue, and satisfies the temperament of those who crave adventure.

Do men, who change the souls of weak men and women into money, pay the price like their victims?
